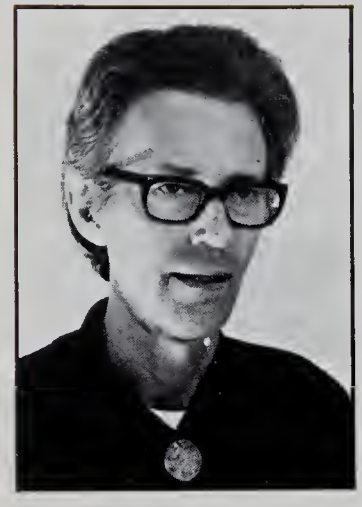
I would like to thank the officers, board, committees, ommittee chairmen, and Club Representatives for all their upport throughout the year. It has been a pleasure to work with very one of them. They all put forth a splendid effort to see that ve will have an enjoyable and successful time.

It has been a privilege to serve as your President and I would ke to thank everyone who showed confidence in me as NASC's eader for the last year.

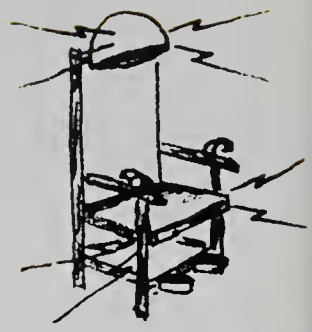
I hope to see you all at the convention.

Auf Wiedersehen,

Richard Lebold



Ex Cathedra Calida Numismatica



Tempus has fugited faster than usual this year. Four issues of the Quarterly have come past this desk, Christmas and Hanukkah are almost here (same day this year!), and it doesn't seem possible. Our first convention at the Ambassador is less than two months away and Ye Ed is making plans and arrangements for his year as Ye Pres. The theme will be NASC itself and its "Silver Jubilee" 25th Annual Convention — but more on that in the next Issue.

Speaking of Hanukkah (or Chanukah), you will find a short article by Carole Klein on the subject in this issue. Ye Ed has shamelessly lifted it from the pages of the Israel Numismatic Society of San Gabriel Valley's bulletin "The Olive Branch" and saved it for an appropriate occasion.

Our family went out to a tree farm in the City of Commerce and we cut our own Christmas tree on the first weekend in December. It reaches the ceiling and is wonderfully fresh. The living room is scented by it and, if last year is any prediction, it should still be fresh at New Year's. Our best wishes go out to all for the holidays. May your Christmas or Hanukkah be filled with joy!

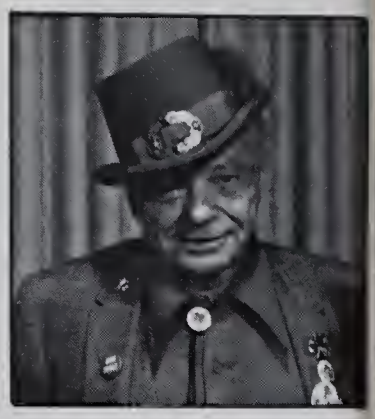
MYRLON L. McCLAFLIN



IMMEDIATE PAST PRESIDENT

Myron L. McClaflin, Immediate Past President of the Numismatic Association of Southern California, died of heart failure on Friday, 27 October 1978, in Los Angeles. "Mac", a well-known figure in Southern California numismatics for many years, was a member of numerous local coin clubs and had served as an officer of many. His participation at the local-club level included serving as President of Culver City Coin Club, East Los Angeles Coin Club, Los Angeles Coin Club, Shamrock Coin Club, and Southern Hub Coin Club. In all of his club activity he gave special emphasis, time, and support to the encouragement of juniors in their numismatic development.

Mac was born in Ohio on 18 May 1909. He grew up and attended school in Canton and nearby Massilon where he played high school football. He served in the U.S. Army during World War II and was severely wounded by shrapnel during this period. Mac moved to California in 1942, settled down, and married Hannah Regenstreich in 1960.

Mac worked as a printer for most of his life, both as an employee and as long-time proprietor of his own business — Shamrock Printing and Lithography. He served as Official Printer to NASC from 1962 until his death, printing the NASC Quarterly and most other printed material required by the Association.

Mac's active involvement with NASC also included serving as an elected member of the Board Of Governors during the period from 1970 until 1976. In 1976 (following the resignation of President-Elect Val C. Mogensen), Mac was elected to the ition of President-Elect. He served as NASC's President for year 1977-78, with a decidedly "Irish" theme to his year and a losophy best expressed by Mac, himself, as: "Love thy God, e our hobby, and love all mankind. . ."

Mac was a familiar sight at local clubs and coin shows in his en "Irish" outfits. He was a founder of the Shamrock Coin b and was at his ethnic peak at its annual St. Patrick's Day ty.

Mac had suffered from heart and respiratory problems for a nber of years and had been forced to curtail his activities erely since completing his term of office as NASC President ebruary 1978. He is survived by his wife, Hannah; a stepson, tin Regenstreich; two brothers, Gilbert Poole and Harold Claflin; and a sister, Bonnie Leonard.

THE SMALL WONDER

by Ralph J. Marx

In 1933, when Adolf Hitler came into power as Dictator of Germany, he promised that every German working man would drive a car. He commissioned Ferdinand Porsche to work on a car that could be sold for 495 Marks (approximately $128 at that time). Porsche set to work immediately and built a few prototypes. These were called "Volkswagen", which translates as "Peoples Car". In 1939 these were shown for the first time at the Berlin International Auto Show. A series of commemorative stamps was issued, one of them showing a Volkswagen. By this time the cost had gone up to 995 Marks (about $244). The cheapest German car at that time cost at least twice as much.

A site for production had to found and Wolfsburg was chosen. A factory and homes for workers were built. Ferdinand Porsche was in charge of the entire operation. Production was slow, however, and only a few cards were built. These few went to Nazi Party officials and no German worker ever owned one.

With the outbreak of World War II, production stopped almost immediately and the factory was changed over to war production and VW-type cars were built for the armed forces. The VW cars proved that they were well designed for all weather conditions. They were used in sub-zero temperatures on the Russian front as well as in the hottest parts of the African desert.

By the end of the war, the factory had been about 60% destroyed and there was a question as to whether it should be rebuilt. Since the U.S. manufacturers were not interested in such a project at the time, someone had to be chosen to rebuild the factory and produce cars for peacetime. The man chosen was Heinz Nordhoff, a Designer and Production Engineer in the automobile industry since 1920. Through his energy and initiative and his strong belief in the ugly little car, VW became the third-largest automobile manufacturer in the world.

On December 5, 1961, the five-millionth VW car rolled off the assembly line. The car, bedecked with flowers, was handed over to the International Red Cross. It had taken 14 years to build five million cars but only three years later the ten-millionth VW was built.

The occasion of the building of the five-millionth VW car s celebrated by the issuance of a commemorative medal in d and silver. These medals were struck by the Bavarian State nt. It is probable that less than ten gold medals were struck. out 5000 silver medals were issued and given to VW alerships around the world. The medal shows on one side the car with an inscription which translates as "Five Million kswagen" plus the dates 1945 and 1961. On the other side is a trait of Heinz Nordhoff, President of VW. These medals are y scarce. I have one in my collection and I saw another one a years ago at a VW Dealer's, but he wouldn't part with it. I do know how the medal was originally distributed — whether ectors could buy them directly from the Mint or if all of them nt to the workers and VW Dealers around the world.

This VW medals was an official commemorative issue by the rman Government and should not be confused with private ues which are minted at private mints to sell to collectors y.

The Small Wonder from Germany made its impact all und the world. It will not be forgotten.

CHANUKAH

by Carole Klein

"The Feast Of Dedication", more colloquially known as "The Feast Of Lights", one of the less-solemn Jewish festivities.

This eight-day holiday usually falls in December. Unlike the festivities of Succoth, Shevuoth, Pesach, and Rosh Hashana, Chanukah does not have its origin in the Bible. It commemorates the victory of the Jewish Maccabees over Syrian despots (167 B.C.) in a fight for religious freedom that rescued Judaism, as a culture, from annihilation. The Apocrypha tells the story (Maccabees I and II).

The rebellion was led by a priest, Matthahias of the Hasmonean family and his son, Judah the Maccabee (the "Hammer"). It continued for three years of guerrilla warfare against the armies of Antiochus IV (who was known to his minions as Epiphanes, "the risen god"). Antiochus planned to convert the Jews by force to Greek Polytheism and he ordered them to build altars and shrines for idols, to stop circumcising male babies, etc. In 168 B.C. the great Temple was desecrated by a huge statue of Zeus and jewish courts were used for orgies. Thousands of Jews fled to caves; thousands wandered about in disguise.

The Maccabean uprising seemed hopeless. Guerrilla groups of Jews, unaccustomed to fighting and equipped with primitive weapons, fought the well-armed Seleucid soldiers — and won out at Emmaus. They returned to Jerusalem to find a sacked, burned Temple and they set about restoring it. On the 25th day of the Hebrew month of Kislev, in 165 B.C., Judah the Maccabean solemnly re-dedicated Zion's Temple — lighting the lamps of a great menorah — and celebrated the beginning of a week-long festival.

To this day, each Chanukah, Jews light candles for eight days — one the first night and one additional each night on the nine-branch menorah. A special ninth candle, called the shammes (servant) stands taller than the rest in the menorah and is used to light the others. This is interpreted to show that one can give light and love to others without losing any part of one's own radiance.

TWICE TOLD TALES

by James L. Betton

The glories of Rome reach across the long centuries even ay with their beckoning message that change is ever present n in the strongest nation.

After being ruled by Kings for several centuries, the mans established a republic in the year 509 or 510 B.C. This ublic lasted for about five hundred years, when it was nsformed into an empire which then endured for about the ne length of time. The first half millennium was a period first onsolidation and then of decline. At the outset, the Republic s dominated by a small noble class but during the first two turies full political rights were gradually extended to all zens. During these two centuries the Romans extended their ver over the Italian peninsula and (by humbling their greatest l, Carthage, in the First and Second Punic Wars) they ame masters of the western Mediterranean. During the next centuries they mastered the eastern Mediterranean as well.

These conquests made some of the Romans extremely rich and they abandoned the simple life of their forebears for a life of luxury, ease, and indolence. Worse than that, by acquiring vast estates which were worked by slave labor, they ruined thousands of small Roman farmers who could not compete with the slave labor and who were, therefore, forced into bankruptcy. Almost penniless, they flocked to the city, there to become hangers-on of the rich and a peril to the state and republic.

Does history repeat itself? Today in our own country we are rapidly going through a transition not unlike that of ancient Rome.

Chanukah is the only Jewish festival connected with a warring event and it is a secular, not a religious celebration. (So deeply ingrained is Jewish distaste for violence that King David himself was not permitted to build the Temple, because he had "stained" by the blood of war). Each Chanukah, the prophecy of Zechariah is read: "Not by strength, not by power, but by My spirit, sayeth the Lord of Hosts".

NFLATION STRIKES AGAIN—
P GOES THE COST OF WIVES

by James L. Betton

Gold coins, together with a camel, sheep, and about $3500 ash used to be the price a man had to pay for a bride in Libya. e and inflation have now made changes. The gold coins e now been replaced by a new car in addition to the camel sheep — but in the new, inflated oil economy the cash ment has now risen to $12,000. In the upper brackets, gifts of ,000 in cash are not unusual.

Libya now receives five billion dollars a year or more in oil me, pumping cash into the economy which was nonexistent w years ago. Those who cannot afford a Libyan wife go to pt or Tunisia where the price is still a modest average of und $200 (these countries haven't the income from oil or al riches).

The inflated prices of wives has led to a campaign by the ernment which recently denounced fathers "Who sell their ghters . . . like camels". One of the many posters displayed in country's major city of Tripoli declares: "Marriage is a bond steel, not money". The Muslim religious leaders in Libya asionally appear on television to argue against spiraling riage costs.

Gold coins formerly formed the bulk of the cash payment a bride in the Middle East, from Turkey to Egypt and in all of th Africa. Now, not enough are available and inflated paper ney has replaced them. Despite this, the Libyan monetary has risen greatly in value against the U.S. dollar since 1970, to its oil backing.

CLUB NEWS

ANAHEIM COIN CLUB

The October program was originally scheduled to be a talk by Ralph "Curley" Mitchell, but it was apparently changed fairly late in the game to a "White Elephant Sale" instead — details are lacking at this time. Curley came in November instead and spoke on "Famous People On Coins And Medals".

BAKERSFIELD COIN CLUB

Jim Duke presented a talk on "Grading" in November. In addition, the club members considered revisions to the by-laws to change the club's meeting schedule (no results at the time of this writing) and also accepted nominations for next year's officer positions.

BAY CITIES COIN CLUB

September's program featured NASC Past President James Betton with special reports on the numismatic conventions in Canada (CNA) and Texas (ANA), plus "tid-bits on what is new with counterfeit problems". In October, BCCC held two meetings. The first was on its regular Third Thursday with COIN-O and final discussions of the CSNA Convention (for which Bay Cities and Culver City C.C. were co-hosts). The second October meeting was a joint assembly with Culver City at the CSNA show — with Charles Colver speaking on "Victoria Regina". For November, the club scheduled its annual election of officers and a recapitulation of the CSNA Convention.

CALIFORNIA ASSOCIATION OF TOKEN COLLECTORS

CATC reports (in its bulletin, Token Topics) that the use of tokens in local amusement arcades is increasing. Apparently, the effects of inflation have had something to do with it — why, ye Ed can recall when they were "penny" arcades and there was no need for tokens. (We wonder whether the steel Pachinko balls would qualify as a kind of "token"?)

CALIFORNIA EXONUMIST SOCIETY

The CES Annual All Day Show in July brought out over 100 attendees. There were eight invitational exhibits and ten dealers in exonumia on hand. In October, CES held a forum meeting in conjunction with the CSNA Fall Convention. Cal-State President John Lenker doubled as a guest speaker ("Yap ney") and as Installing Officer for the following NEW FICERS: Pres., Albert K. Hall; V.P., O.L. Wallis; Sec'y., ginia M. Hall; Treas., Carol Linn. The CES Medallion notes t new V.P. O.L. Wallis won both Best Of Exonumia and Best Show awards with his display of a "Medallic Tribute To arles Lindbergh".

LIFORNIA STATE NUMISMATIC ASSOCIATION

A write-up of the CSNA 63rd Semi-Annual Convention will found elsewhere in this issue. See Table of Contents.

LIFORNIA WOODEN MONEY ASSOCIATION

The evening also included bingo. In October, Bruce Crise spoke on "Gold Country". CVCC held its 14th Annual Coin Show in November with exhibits, dealers, elongated coins (designed by member Ruth Carver) rolled on 1964 silver dimes and 1978 cents, and wooden "nickels" (obverse designed by Jim Cliburn and reverse by Ruth Carver).
